

This Can Happen partners with Community Business

This Can Happen is the largest online workplace mental health event and today we announce a new partnership with Community Business to help bring our established event to a new audience in Asia.

Community Business is the leading not-for-profit organisation advancing responsible and inclusive business practices in Asia, harnessing the power of business to drive social change. The partnership will allow This Can Happen to be extended to employees in markets across Asia.

Commenting on the new partnership Zoe Sinclair, Co-Founder says “We are thrilled to welcome Community Business as our partner for Asia. We have been talking with each other since we launched in 2018 and it was evident from the beginning that our two organisations share so many values and clients who are keen to learn and participate in the workplace mental health journey.”

Peter Sargant, CEO at Community Business shares “When we compiled our research into mental health in the workplace in Asia back in 2018, few companies were ready to talk about mental health. With the outbreak of COVID-19 and the requirement to work from home and socially distance, the discussion around mental health has been fast-tracked up the corporate agenda. We are honoured to be partnering with This Can Happen to bring the leading mental health workplace conference to our audiences in Asia and are committed to working with senior leaders and their teams in the region to address this critical subject in the workplace.”

What is This Can Happen?

This Can Happen is the largest gathering of companies across the world, coming together to tackle workplace mental health. We support employers and employees across the world to create a positive environment for good mental health in the workplace.

Everything we do is solutions-led. Building on our London conference our global online event (23-25 November) provides delegates with relevant answers to a range of mental health topics, our Awards celebrate excellence in mental health strategies and our networking events enable likeminded individuals to meet and learn with their peers.

We provide free to access online resources - including videos, podcasts and research – around workplace mental health: <https://www.thiscanhappenevents.com/resources>

Our virtual conference, This Can Happen 2020, takes place 23-25 November 2020. Find out more here and buy ticket <https://www.thiscanhappenevents.com/conference/online-event>
